Requirements for Receiving Medical School Elective Credit for PhD Research

"I acknowledge that receipt of two months of fourth-year elective credit for my GSBS research is contingent upon (1) completing the GSBS requirements for the PhD prior to being awarded a MD degree, and (2) completing the lab portion for the PhD within four years or completing the lab portion in five years for students participating in a clinic on a weekly basis for one or more years while completing the dissertation research. The clinic rotation must have been approved in advance by the Medical School Office of Student Affairs by submitting a Special Project Form for written approval of the clinic rotation."
